The Wildlife Center of Silicon Valley (WCSV) is a nonprofit wildlife rehabilitation center in San Jose that receives over 5,600 animals a year! Our mission is to rescue, rehabilitate, and release our local sick, injured, and orphaned wildlife. Interns will learn to provide species-specific husbandry requirements for the many different patients seen at WCSV. Interns will have the opportunity to examine incoming wildlife, treat patients, and learn different diagnostic techniques, such as fecal testing and bloodwork. In addition, interns will assist WCSV's staff in training new volunteers.
